

Lyons Predicts 100,000 Margin In 2 Boroughs

Estimates Majority for Curran in Manhattan and Brooklyn, and Sees Victory for Coalition Ticket

Hylan's Course About Run

Declares Women Voters Are Not Convinced by Noise of Tammany's Shouters

"Curran by 100,000," and a victory for the entire coalition ticket at the polls on November 8, was the prediction last night of John J. Lyons, campaign manager, at the headquarters of the Coalition Campaign Committee.

"The coalition ticket will win," said Mr. Lyons. "That is assured now. We will carry Manhattan and Brooklyn by more than 100,000. This estimate is not based on guesswork. It is compiled from reports received day after day from inside workers, after a thorough canvass of the two boroughs."

"The campaign has advanced all through as per schedule. There has not been the slightest interruption in the progress of the plans as originally formed. There isn't a doubt in the world about the coalition victory. I feel it; I am confident of it. So is every one here at headquarters who has a knowledge of the facts."

Homestretch of Campaign
"We are now on the last lap. We have turned into the homestretch of the campaign. During the last two weeks Mr. Curran and his running mates have laid before the people the actual issues of the campaign. The clear and logical way this has been done has brought about effective results."

"The false issues of Hylan, employed as a smokescreen to becloud the real facts, have been exposed, laid bare in all their ugly, crumbling emptiness. Now we find the voters listening eagerly—listening and studying the facts as presented by Mr. Curran and his associates."

Curran Star in Ascendancy

"Hylan's campaign has run its course. It has petered out. Curran's star is in the ascendancy. Reports which we receive daily prove that the surface agitation created by professional shouters, and by fly-by-night political organizations, formed for what there is in it, and by the professional Tammany worker, trained to keep on shouting victory, are just noise, nothing more. They always try this to win over weak-kneed Republicans or independents who wander aimlessly around in the political arena. This trickery might avail if the fight were close. A startling surprise is in store when they come to on Election night and realize the large majorities rolled up for Curran and every Republican candidate on the city and county tickets of greater New York."

"Another factor that our opponents do not take into their calculations is the women's votes. They have not realized and they do not realize that the woman of to-day is not only voting, but that she is taking an active realization of questions of civic right and wrong, not so much as a student of politics as by her woman's intuition. She has found the Republican party to be the party of her liking and believes that it will give greater protection to her children and her home."

Two Good Terms Deserve Third, Says Miss Smith

With the slogan "Two good terms deserve another," Miss Marguerite L. Smith, the girl member of the New York State Legislature, is waging her campaign for a third term. She is the Republican nominee in the 19th Assembly District of Manhattan, on the Upper East Side.

Miss Smith stands on her record in the last two sessions. She has been chiefly interested in the education bills and child welfare measures. Also she voted against the traction bill, for which she was commended by the Citizens Union.

Her chief campaign plea is for the passage of Amendment No. 6 to the state constitution, which deals with the machinery of the Children's Court. This amendment authorizes the Legislature to establish children's courts and to confer upon them such jurisdiction as may be necessary for the

that Curran, Lockwood and Gilroy are going to win. Before Election Day the very thought of four years more of Hylan, Hearst and Tammany Hall will sicken the intelligent voters."

Koenig Warns Of Strong-Arm Plans of 'Tiger'

Declares Tammany Is in Last Ditch and Election Will Be Most Disorderly in New York's History

Sure of Curran Victory

Despite Padded Registration, He Says, Coalition Candidates Will Be Named

Samuel S. Koenig, president of the New York County Republican Committee, prophesied last night that, although the coalition candidates would win, it would be in spite of frauds by Tammany and in the most disorderly election the city ever had seen.

"In all the years that I have been in politics," he said, "I never have seen such unmistakable signs of desperation on the part of Tammany as we are seeing now."

"I think we shall see the most disorderly election in the history of New York. Tammany is in control of the city and county departments that are supposed to stand for the enforcement of the law. They have the police and the District Attorney's office."

Strong-Arm Methods Feared

Strong-arm methods at the polls, he continued, would be the easier this year because of the abolition of the office of State Superintendent of Elections. Evidence had come to light already, he said, of padded registration lists in Tammany districts, and everywhere Tammany leaders were proclaiming their confidence with a vigor which belied the truth of their claims. It meant, he said, that Tammany realized it had come to the last ditch and was prepared to defend itself with every weapon that came to hand—"by the free and unscrupulous exercise of strong-arm methods that probably will not stop short of murder itself," was the way Mr. Koenig put it.

"In spite of all this brag and bluster," said Mr. Koenig, "I am convinced that Curran, Lockwood and Gilroy are going to win. Before Election Day the very thought of four years more of Hylan, Hearst and Tammany Hall will sicken the intelligent voters."

Richard W. Lawrence, leader of the Republican organization in the Bronx, agreed with Mr. Curran that Tammany was "taking more chances with the law" than in any previous campaign within his recollection. In support of his statement he called attention to the failure of the District Attorney of Bronx County to take any notice of the Van Orden petition which Justice Giegeich declared fraudulent a few days ago.

"The Republican organization had to undertake the burden of fighting that ardent fraud upon the people," said Mr. Lawrence. "It had no help from the Democratic District Attorney of Bronx County. I saw that gentleman concerning the incident to-day. He said it was not his business to interfere."

"It will be the business of the Republicans and Independent Democrats to interfere after election. The ballot is supposed to be sacred. The Tammany machine in the Bronx attempted to make a joke of it."

"Another matter that will be followed up after election is the summons issued by the Bronx County Grand Jury to Vincent Gilroy to appear before it and explain some of his campaign utterances. We faced that body fearlessly and, of course, was not interfered with again. But why was he summoned at all? By what right was he haled there for exercising his right as an American citizen?"
